

COSTA RICA 2011!

Do you dream of studying science in the tropical rainforest- waking up to howler monkey calls, seeing tucans flying wild, and designing your own science fieldwork to do there? Does it interest you to compare that back with our own ecosystem here in Maine?

Tropical Rainforest Ecology is for you! No prerequisites, but you do need to apply. We want a diverse group of 9-12 grade students who are excited and ready to work hard. This course is a 1 credit science course offered second semester of next year, and includes a 12 day trip to the Costa Rican rainforest during April vacation. Come get an application from Ms. Gould in room 202, come to an information session, ask questions, and get your application in before February Vacation!
